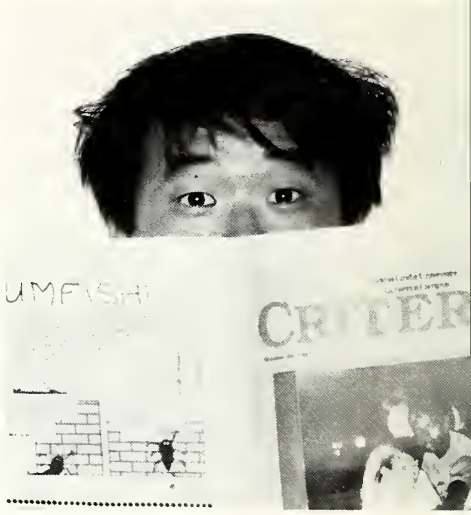
A Word From . . .

Helen H. Pai

Trying to cram a whole year into a mere 184 pages is no easy task. Especially when the year was so full of activities and changes. But that is what you'll find in this 1987-88 edition of Visions. Welcome to Visions In Motion — the book that will take you everywhere from the descriptive opening opening sections to the insights and visions of a various number of Seniors. From greetings from the President and Provost to the enchanting photographs in our gallery. And make sure to check out the Self-Portraits — something new to Visions — of students at their creative best! I wish all of you a very successful life with high hopes that this book will serve as a great memory of the year gone by.



David C. Kim

After a countless number o all-nighters and egg burritos I am ecstatic to present to you the 1987-88 edition of Visions. What you are holding in your hands is not just a book full o pictures of things that happened this year: Try to think of it as the concentrated school year. It is sentimental food for the mind. In fact, try to think of it as the dehydrated school year: just add water. Except that the "water" that you add to the book is the feelings and thoughts which flood into your brain as you peruse its pages.

Enjoy your meal!

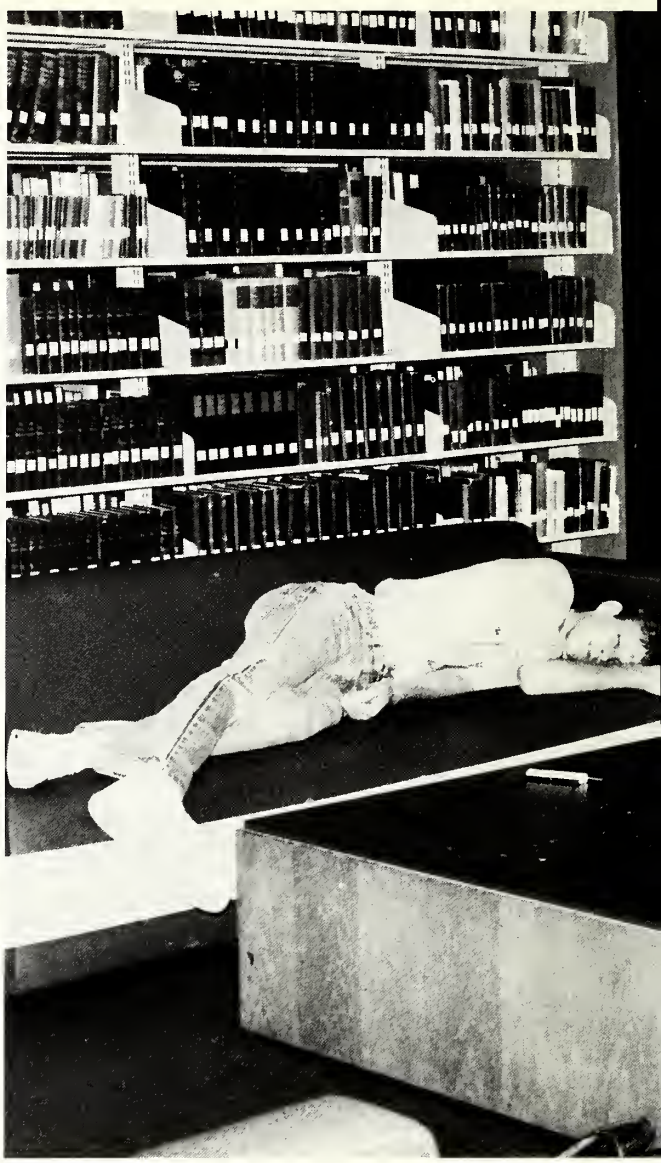
WHAT IS MOTION?



Obviously static motion is a contradiction in terms. But students here who conduct frequent all-night cram sessions have come remarkably close to experiencing this type of motion on the day following their marathon of information absorption. Naps, for many of us, take place wherever and whenever we can afford to take one. However, there are those who conduct their static movements during the times which traditions has set aside for us all . . . and these people I envy.

STATIC

Observe your surroundings while in church sometime. Notice the reverence which seems to permeate the environment; the awesome, impressive structures and shapes; the serious and humble, yet dignified faces in the congregation and the ceremonious nature of the services. But most of all, realize the importance of religion and the church in uniting individuals in the worship of our Creator.

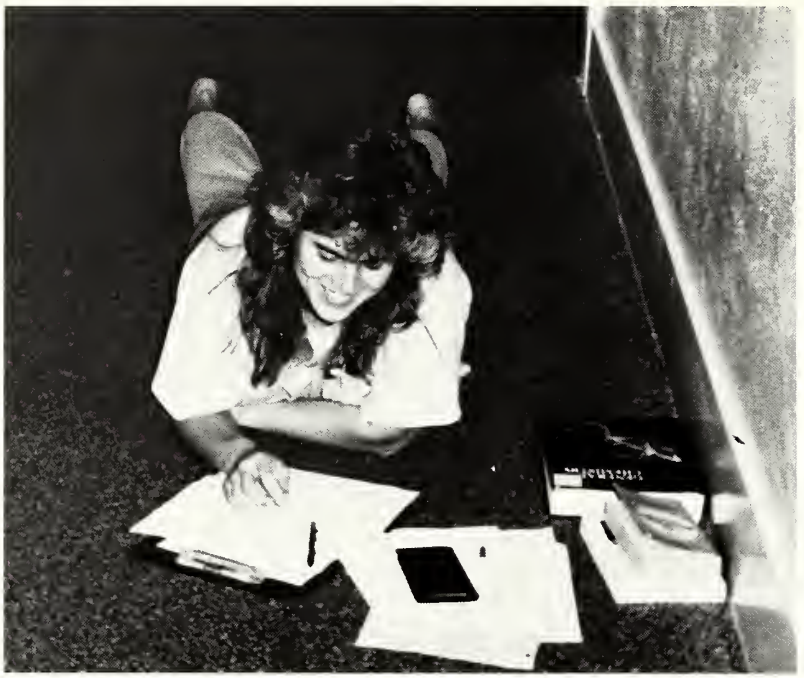
SOLEMN

School is methodical. Work is methodical. Play is methodical. Worship is methodical. How can we escape this routine? Should we escape it? I guess we need this methodical motion in our lives from transforming into utter chaos.

METHODICAL

However, there are times when we feel as though we are in such a state of chaos that our brains are about to explode. It probably isn't normal not to have times like these. Actually, if you're normal, your college life probably contains more chaos than it does order.

CHAOTIC



Voracious does not only describe the motions involved in the consumption of food for physical nourishment. It can also describe our appetites for mental and spiritual food. Our campus provides the means to satisfy our various voracious appetites.

VORACIOUS

Of course we have to let our frustrations out and go wild sometimes. And where do we fulfill our desires to go wild? Why, here at school, of course! LSC is not just an organization of Christian education, it is also the Adventist epicenter of wild activity.

WILD

We have all heard the phrases "Life in the Fast Lane," and "Life moves fast," and it is here that many of us get a taste of the rapid motion involved in life. Although it may be shocking at first, most of us get used to the speed of life. But is it something we should get used to?

RAPID

It is on this campus that many of our visions are formed. Our movements here, no matter how directly or indirectly, contribute to the fulfillment of our visions. Our visions in motion not only cause us to better ourselves but also to better those who inhabit our surroundings. Of our college experience it is this positive reinforcement and spirit of Christian comaraderie that have the most lasting influence on the remainder of our lives.

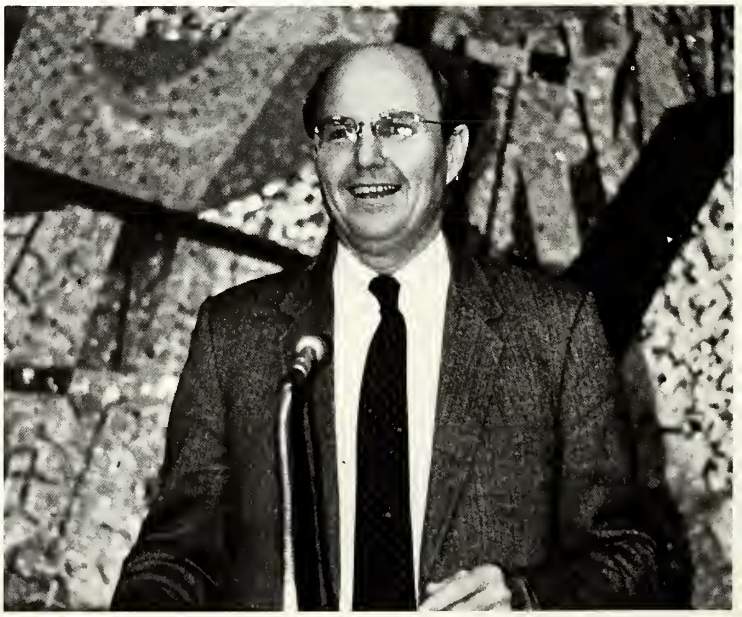
VISIONS IN MOTION

PRESIDENT

Norman J. Woods

University students are the future! They are the future of our church, our nation and our world. Each generation has had visions for the future, but currently your visions hold the greatest potential for our world. Although you are immersed in your studies, you do have dreams for the future. I am confident that you desire a close, loving family and a fulfilling, challenging career. Your faculty and administrators wish you the same, but beyond that, we wish you a life filled with service to God and your fellowman. There is no higher calling than to serve others, and in this way reflect our Lord's commitment to mankind.

We are pleased that you have chosen to attend Loma Linda University, a Christian University. While you are here we want to help you prepare to meet your life's goals and to realize your visions for the future. We are happy to work with you, play with you, and dream with you. We want you to always remember your college days as a time of growth and movement toward the visions and goals you have set. May your dreams come true as you seek to better the world in which you live.



PROVOST

R. Dale McCune

This 1987 edition of VISIONS is designed not only for you to peruse and enjoy today, but to serve you faithfully as a remembrance of the people, places and events which together merge the year into a small frame of the larger picture of your life on the La Sierra Campus of Loma Linda University.

These are not "still shots" but are University scenes to remind you of the actions and vitality of the Christian teachers and fellow students who were an integral part of your life. This issue of "VISIONS In Motion" will, like any precious treasure, become more valuable as time passes, not invested in it, but because the experiences it records could never be bought nor priced. They are the "hunks of life" from which your future life is formed.

May God continue to bless each one of you.

The bustle in a house
The morning after death
Is solemness of industries
Enacted upon earth —

The sweeping up the heart,
And putting love away,
We shall not want to use again
Until eternity.
— Emily Dickinson

Grosvenor Russell Fattic, Ph.D.

(July 2, 1940 - November 3, 1987)

He was a "Renaissance" man who touched hundreds of lives and whom we remember for:

His razor-sharp wit and sense of humor,

His agile, inquiring mind,

His insightful ability to probe to the heart of any issue,

His willingness to give of himself and his time to other people,

His cheerful optimism,

His great love of fine music,

His unsual "marriage" of the arts and sciences within himself,

His unhassled mode of life,

His ability to be at home in any setting,

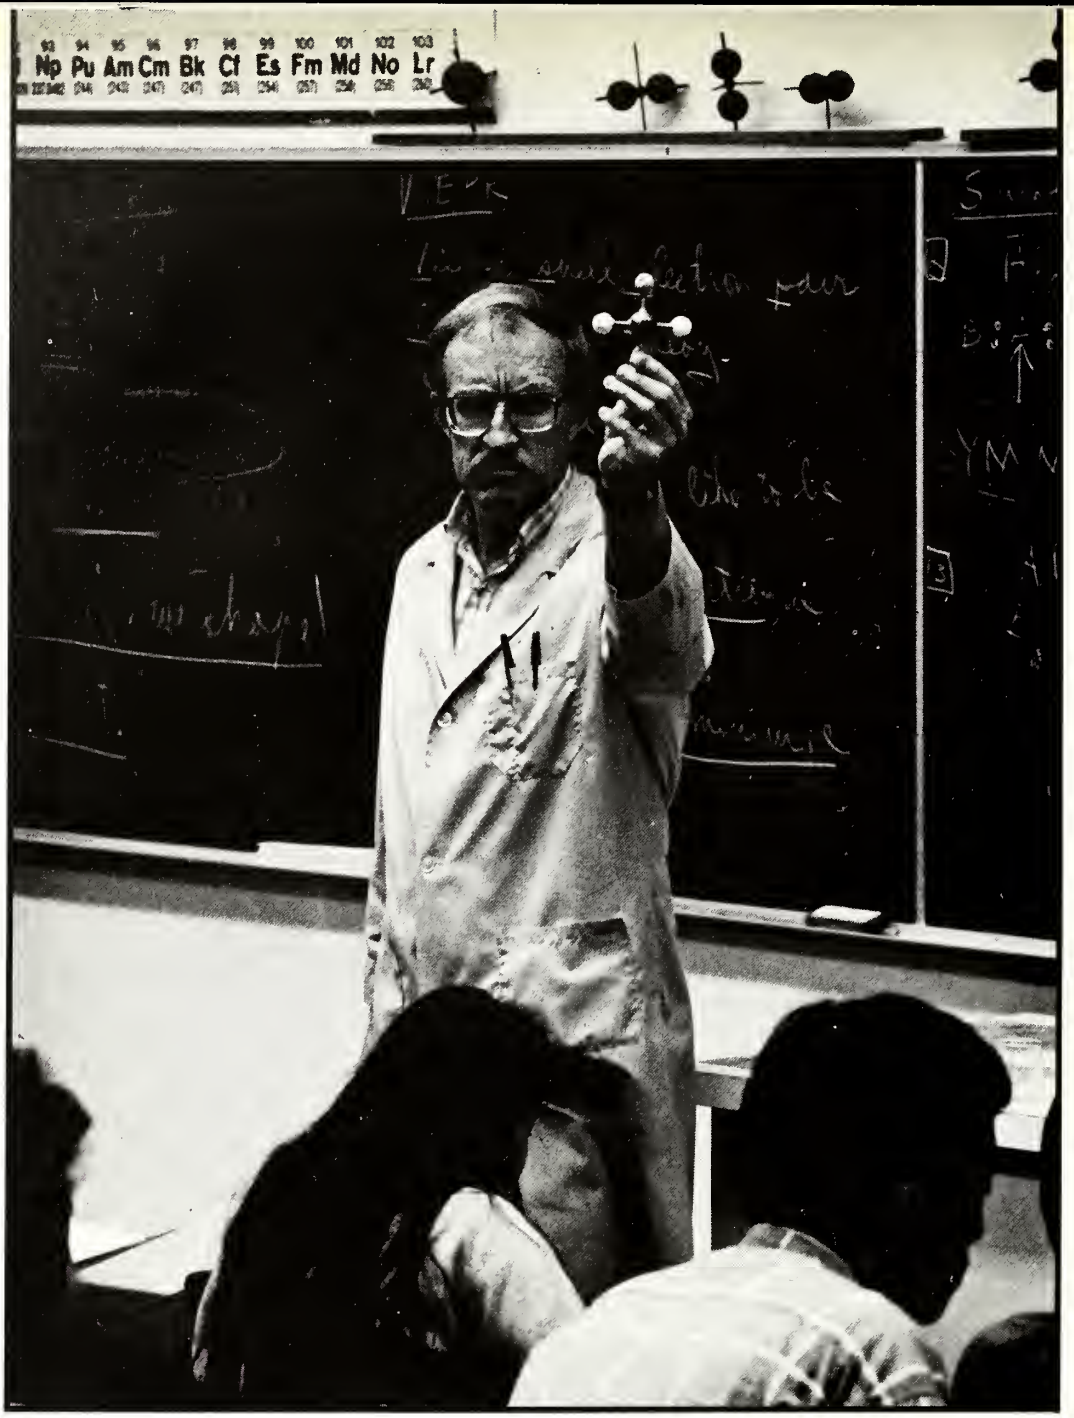
His love of conversation — on any subject,

His amazing store of general knowledge,

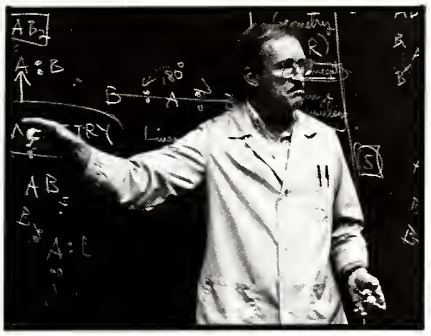
His tidiness of mind, person and surroundings . . .

for all of this — and much more — we, his students, colleagues and friends, honor him.

— D. Comm

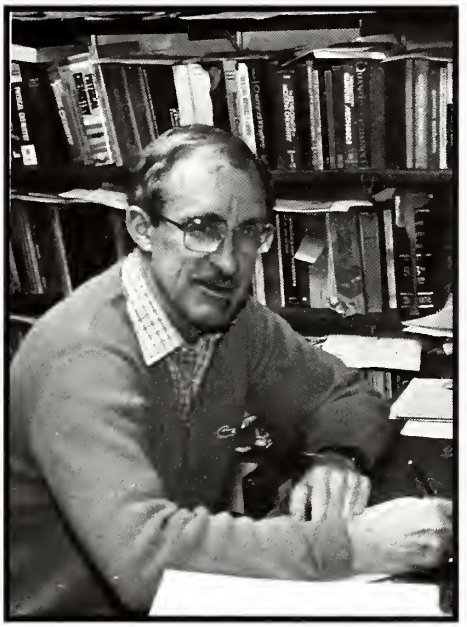


Leland Wilson, Ph.D.
Chemistry
DEDICATION



Dr. Wilson's dynamic lectures demonstrate his colorful personality. In a "typical" lecture, his voice will crescendo until he almost screams at the top of his lungs to emphasize an idea. Then, to drive that idea home, he will gesture violently with his arms. Now excited, he might run across the front of the room, or write and erase at the chalkboard at the same time. Finally, he will take advantage of the situation by diminishing his voice to a hoarse whisper, carefully positioning within the minds of his students that precious idea.

However, his powerful strength in the classroom turns into quiet gentleness as he deals with students. He always learns the names of his students, and does not forget them after the quarter is over. He has prayer before every lecture, no matter how busy the schedule is. He dares students to ask questions, and then asks for feedback on his answers. Dr. Leland Y. Wilson: His past is as colorful as his personality. He was born in Maine, where he attended Forest Lake Academy. Upon receiving his undergraduate degree from Walla Walla College, he pursued his graduate education at the University of Nebraska, attaining his Master's degree in 1960 and his Ph.D. degree in 1964. While at the University of Nebraska, he was also an Associate Professor at Union College. Before coming to Loma Linda University in 1974, he was a Professor at Philippine Union College. He is presently Professor of Chemistry and co-chairman of the recommendations committee. An unconditional love for what this university stands for burns within Dr. Wilson. It is people like him who set this university apart from the typical institution of higher eduction. Chemistry is not the most important thing in life. Dr.



Wilson knows this. Within his office of high entropy resides a man who desperately attempts to install within his students the same flame that burns within him: "To make man whole."

Dr. Wilson, for a guy who loves math, you aren't a bad guy. We dedicate this year's edition of Visions to you. May you always "go for the moles" . . . and always find them.

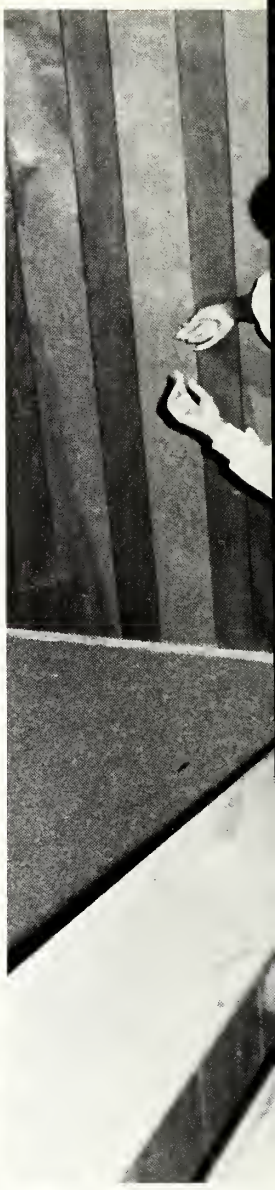
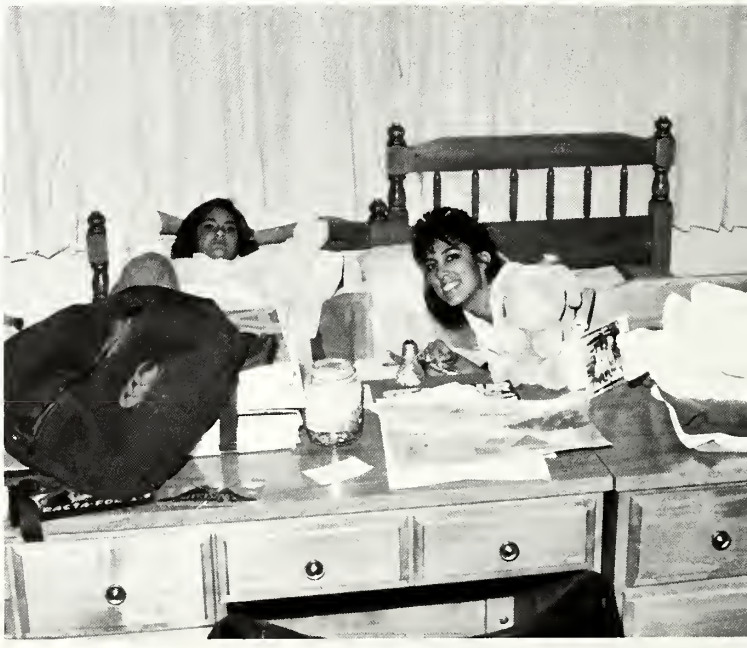
ANGWIN

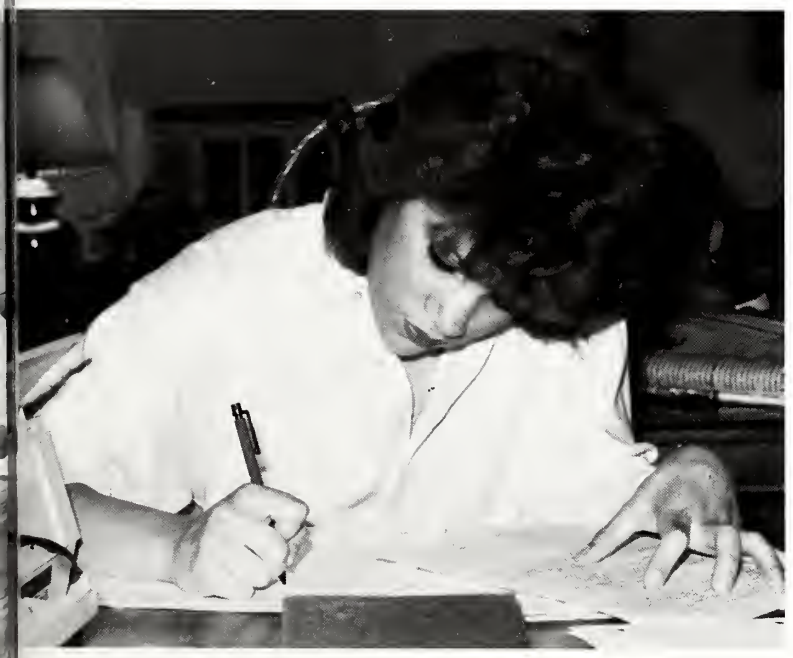
By Annette Bryson

Steam floats up as bubbles burst in the Angwin Hall jacuzzi. Giving up, a girl slams shut her Organic Chemistry book and joins her giggling friends in the spa. Dorm life. Traditionally, we must say we hate it, but we don't. We live with our friends and share in everyday joys and disappointments. We'll never forget our midnight runs to Naugles or George's for authentic burritos or wonderful S Fries. We return Dean Barclay-Reid's knowing grin as she accepts our request for an all night study excursion to Denny's Restaurant during finals week. We peek around the corner as the most wanted man on campus picks up our best friend for a date. Time passes and our memory dims or becomes better, depending on our perspective. We don't remember the hassles over phone bills, turns to clean the bathroom, or even Dean Curtis' order for our boyfriend to leave the dorm at 10:30 P.M. We only remember our friendships and the bonds we formed with colleagues and deans that will last a lifetime. Angwin Hall has become our home. Its halls cross the fine line of time as they forever ring with the sounds of our laughter and tears mixed with the new.

GLADWYN







By Erica Kim

As a freshman/sophomore dorm, Gladwyn Hall serves not only as a place of shelter and a place of study, but also a place one can grow. For those experiencing dorm life for the first time, the discomfort of a strange atmosphere is gradually eased by everyone's genuine outreach and concern. So if help is ever needed, it is never difficult to find someone willing to turn to.

Offering a comfortable atmosphere, the newly decorated lobby draws students from other dorms as a favorite place for either dating or studying. The anxiety and stress brought on from the many hours spent studying are fortunately relieved by the enriching worships held in Angwin Hall and Matheson Chapel a couple of evenings a week. And when homesickness begins to set in, it's nice to know that regardless of the matter, there is always a listening ear, including, of course, that of the Dean. But best of all, without a doubt, are the special friendships that are made in Gladwyn, that keeps one going and make up the memories of a lifetime.

SOUTH

By Melissa Marquez

Dear Mom and Dad,

Well, I'm here! My first year at La Sierra.

Mom, I'm relieved. The girls here at South Hall are just like my friends at home. They're really fun and sort of wild. We have Rosa and the Rejectos having parties at any time of the night for any reason. Our lobby is always too busy because the 5-Alive group have their parties there. I've met so many people here. Linda our public relations manager has seen to that. There's even one girl, Zanette, who has two rooms! Her room and the TV room!

The R. A.'s are just like us. They've taught us the educational value of "creative discussions" and "Late Night with David Letterman."

Well, gotto go. Leslie's exploding pens again. Besides "Days of our Lives" is starting.

P.S. Wendy, Tonya, Shal, Michelle, Karen and Evelyn are coming over for the weekend. Please?

CALKINS

By Michael Poon

Calkins Hall — the first stop for the men of Loma Linda University. Their experiences here will forge and shape their character for the rest of their university experience and for life.

Dorm life plucks the students from the security of home and thrusts them into a melting pot of cultures, lifestyles, and personalities. To smooth the transition from home to Dorm life, the Deans and Residents' Assistants serve as "big brothers" in the Calkins Hall family — aiding in time of crisis. Their goal? Community ... to function as an integral part of a whole, being a team member. The Deans develop this through social and spiritual activities.

Participation in Almost Anything Goes, The Dean's Christmas part, community works, intramurals, and Dorm worships, the Calkins Hall residents soon gain friendships and memories for life.

Through spiritual and social community, the Calkins Hall family strives to prepare the resident for success in academics and life.

SIERRA TOWERS

By Nathan Beebe

Here in Sierra Towers, the upperclassman dormitory at La Sierra, we hope to have achieved the perfect balance between the physical, the intellectual and the spiritual.

An exciting feature for the year was the new weight room, complete with a rowing machine and a life cycle.

Dorm life here is a love/hate relationhip. It's wonderful to have so many friends around when you need help or just want to have a good time. But when you need to study, the best of friends can be a nuisance at times. Serious studying can be done in the dorm on weekends when most students have gone home. The Deans, likewise, are great to have around when all is going well, but when certain types of trouble arise, you sometimes wish they weren't so omnipresent. Late night food leaves to local fast food establishments for delicacies, such as S Fries, are another integral part of Towers life.

The worships have been an essential part of life here, also. There have been many excellent services, a few poor services, and a number of skipped services. All of these things and many others fill our mind with fond memories as we end this year.

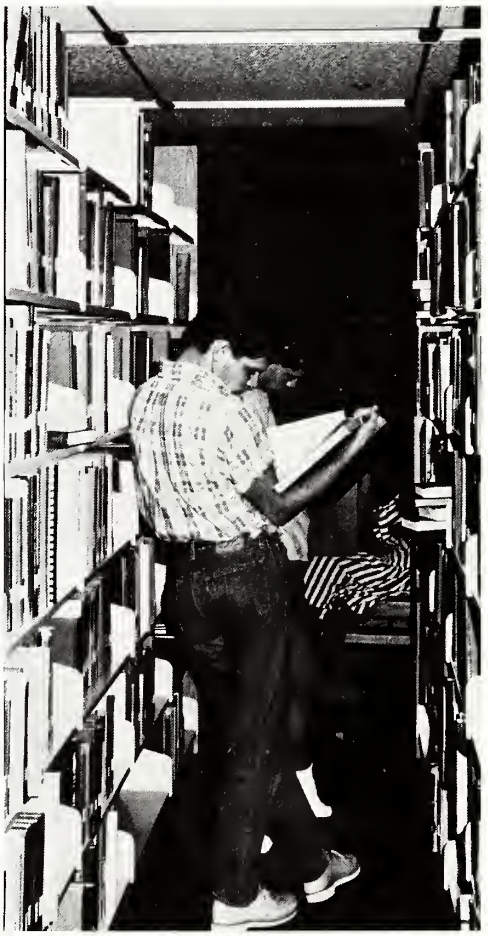
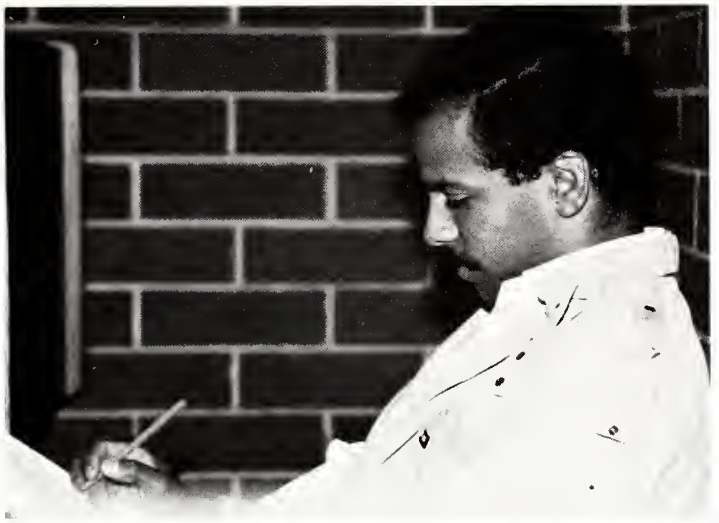
LIBRARY





By Steve Gutekunst

The library is a place with books, books, and more books. To the student, the thought of reading books usually means homework. And few students really enjoy homework.

But here at Loma Linda University, students are fortunate to have a library that provides a refreshing environment for either studying or just relaxing with friends.

With its colorful interior and modern design, the library serves as an escape from isolated dorm rooms and traffic-filled dorm lobbies.

Couples are often seen whispering to each other on the third floor's luxurious sofas. Others choose to study to their favorite music on their walkman. Friends can relax and share their week's challenges and disappointments in the peaceful sunlight of the library's beautiful atrium.

It uses are countless but the library adds up to be one big boost in a Christian education.

MICOL

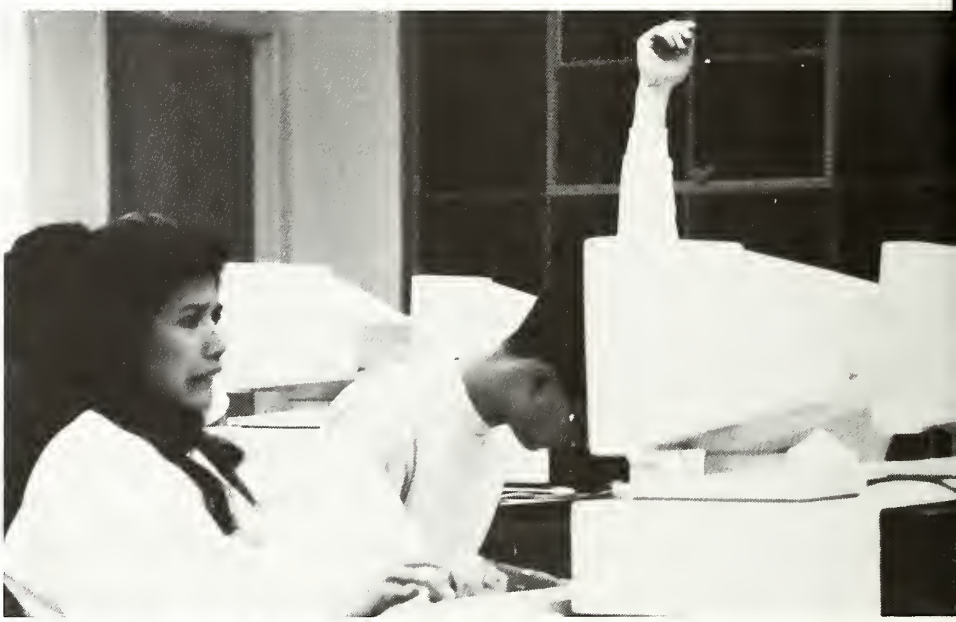
By Doug Plata

What do you get when you mix 28 AT&T's, 7 Apple IIe's, 5 Macintoshes, 2 laser printers and a handful of POP-11 terminals? The Microcomputer Lab of course.

From its humble beginnings at the end of last year, the MICOL has been a valuable resource for the students on campus. The facility is commonly used for teaching computer classes and seminars, typing up term papers, relaxing with a game and considerably more.

D. P. Harris has managed and staffed the lab with about two dozen helpful assistants and has seen to it that the lab is outfitted with all the most up-to-date equipment and software that a student might need.

Having found its niche on our campus, the lab is an asset which has undoubtedly done nothing but enhance the university and the quality of education it can provide.



Counseling Center

By Daniel Herman Aldana

Okay. Let's face it. This is a university. Some of our time should be dedicated to studying. After all, all play and no work makes Jack a very unsuccessful boy.

Occasionally, there comes a time when we need to get that insider information, that personal help, that extra boost of confidence, that clear explanation of the mysterious worlds of academia. For some of us, that time comes a little more frequently. Whether you are an infrequent visitor to the counseling center, or it's your second home, you have come to appreciate the services that they provide.

A lot of people hold firmly to the myth that the counseling center is only here to provide tutorial help. WRONG!!

They also help in guidance, career planning and home sickness (No, they still can't replace Mom.)

COMMONS/ SNACKSHOP

By Daniel Herman Aldana

If the dorm is our home away from home then the Commons is mom's cooking without the mom. Every day we get the opportunity of eating tasty and varied meals. But let's face it, we don't all go to the cafeteria for its cullinary pleasures. The Commons is the hub of campus life.

Both the Commons and the Snack Shop are involved in one of the toughest struggles on this campus; How to provide hundreds of hungry, rushed, students a well balanced meal. A meal that satisfies even the most demanding mom.

Besides the varied menu served in the Commons we are fortunate enough to have another "option;" the Snack Shop. A more leisurely and informal place to meet.

Student Center/Game Room

By Kim Mohr

This year, the Student Center and Game Room, located beneath the Commons, was truly an area for students to relax and enjoy themselves. Various activities, such as Pac Man, Foosball, Ping Pong, and Wednesday night videos were made available to the student body. Often, groups or clubs used the Student Center lounge for evening parties and Bible studies. It was not an uncommon sight during the day to see students in their own quiet corners studying, eating lunch, or even taking a quick nap. These centers served many functions this year and was very successful in achieving its singular goal of establishing a favorable environment for social interaction.

The Roy and Frances BRANDSTATER GALLERY

By Daniel Herman Aldana

The Roy and Frances Brandstater Gallery, located in the number one building of the Visual Arts Center, provides the students with a chance to come in contact with current art trends and movements. Approximately every quarter, a new exhibit reflects a different facet of the visual arts.

The first show, Michael Speaker sculpture and prints, brought us a collection of whimsical images of contemporary events and ideas. A sculpture show featuring the work of Hazel Simon and Herbert Conrad, developed abstract and nonobjective forms in a variety of media. Conde Robinson Osgood (1898-1966), the first art teacher at La Sierra, was on exhibit during the winter quarter. The show consisted of a body of mature paintings that explore light, motion, and music. One of the roles of the university is to expose the inquiring student to activities and events in the culture outside of the campus limits. The Brandstater Gallery is our window to the outside world.

The year 1988 saw La Sierra campus choose a mascot.

The Golden Eagle's first appearance occurred during the alumni benefit basketball game between La Sierra and Pacific Union College on March 12, 1988. Since then, the golden eagle has been the motivating force behind school spirit in many athletic and social activities.

Registration

By Daniel Herman Aldana

Three times a year, all the frustration, pressure, and stress of an entire quarter are concentrated into one eight hour period. This gala event is fondly referred to as registration. After sending men to the moon, developing a vaccination for polio, unraveling the mysteries of DNA and putting toothpaste in a pump, you would think that it would be possible to get classes filled and tuition paid in a more efficient, less painful way. This truth is however, that until such an advance is made, students will have to continue going from table to table collecting stickers representing seats in a classroom, standing in lines until their blood pools around their ankles, and paying through the nose to get one of the finest educations around.

Now don't get me wrong, I like registration. It is possible to make registration quite an enjoyable experience. Here are a few tips: pretend that your whole future does not depend on the classes for which you register, imagine that instead of being in the student finance line, you are at a beach in Hawaii basking in the sun. Forget that each step forward seems like two steps back, that the lines seem to get longer before they get shorter, remember instead, that in heaven the last shall be first.

Finally, let's think of all the things that we would miss if registration just did not exist . . . uh . . .

Spirit Assembly

By Jon-Eric Prichard

We moved in one accord. A wave of purple and a rush of gold, shouting the praises of our institution. Speeches made, candy tossed and the provocative sounds of "The Vegeburger Beat" created an atmosphere very much like a pep rally.

Unity is the one term that could describe our student body on this day. Here, we introduced our new sporting teams and our Student Government team. Upon the introduction of our new Dean of Students, one could not help but think we were ushering in a new era of spirit-filled life at Loma Linda University.

This spirit rally was the first, it won't be the last, but the memory of this moment will live long, for it created a fresh spirit for our school.

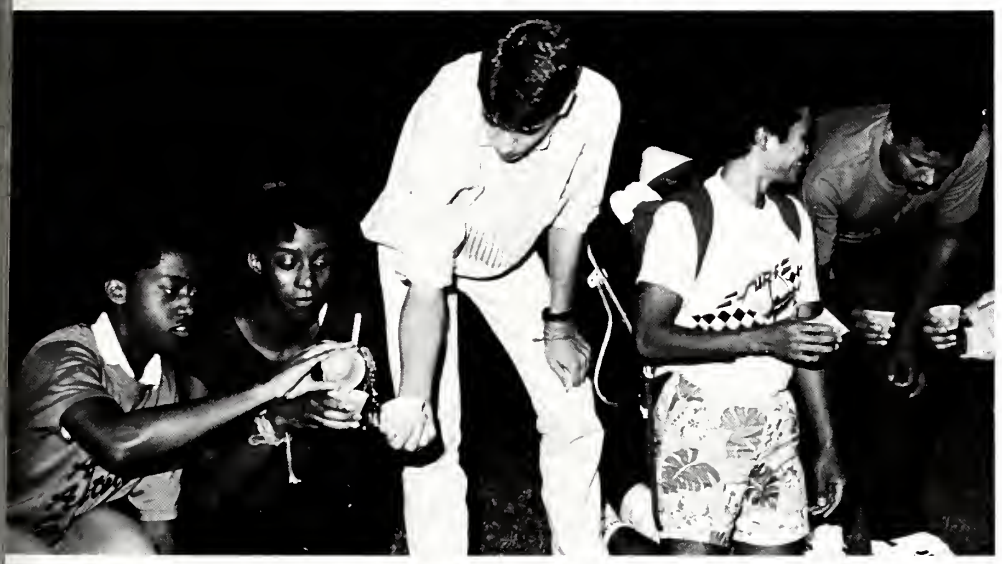
Let's Get Acquainted

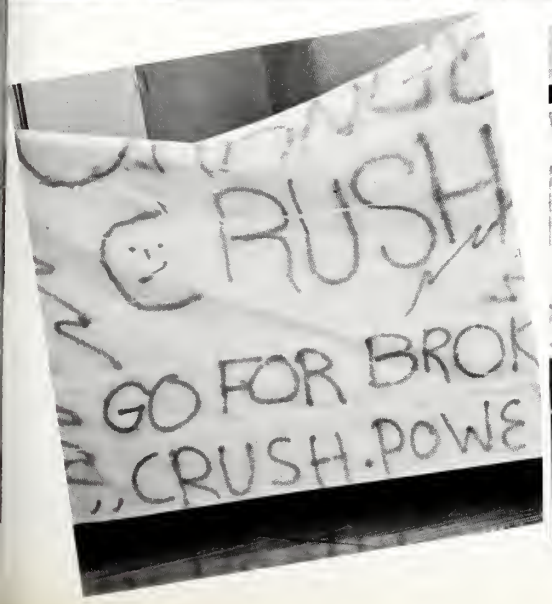
Where else would you find a large circle of girls throwing one of their shoes in the center, but at the first major social event of the year — The Get Acquainted Party. Besides "Shoe Toss," the games consisted of "Make Me Laugh," "Musical Knees," "The Dating Game," and "Mingle." Highlights of the evening included ASLLU Social Vice-President Schoen Safotu catching the infamous pie-in-the-face and the entrance of Pastor Osborne in the "popemobile."

Outside the Alumni Pavilion, punch, cookies, and licorice were served while the Ole Club kept everything festive by providing mood-setting music.

Almost Anything Goes

Bursts of energy were concentrated in the Alumni Pavilion during fall's Almost Anything Goes. The games began with the triumphant entrance of the mainly freshman team, Orange Crush. Once again the teams tackled the old favorites such as the Innertube Pull and the Water Cup Relay. Powered with residents from Angwin Hall and Sierra Towers, Blue Crew defeated last year's champions, the Village Green Machine. Orange Crush, who began with surprising force, finished in third place with the faculty and staff team, Big Red finishing fourth.





Meet The Firms

By Michael Creamer

Meet The Firms is an example of one of the fine opportunities that the School of Business and Management offers their students. On October 15, 1987, representatives from over fifty business firms, ranging from the General Conference and the State of California to IBM, AT&T and Ernst & Whinney, came to give information about careers and the companies themselves. The students picked the firms they were interested in and discussed job opportunities in accounting, management, office information systems and other business related fields. With programs like Meet The Firms it is quite easy to see why we are especially proud of Loma Linda University's School of Business and what they are doing for these students.

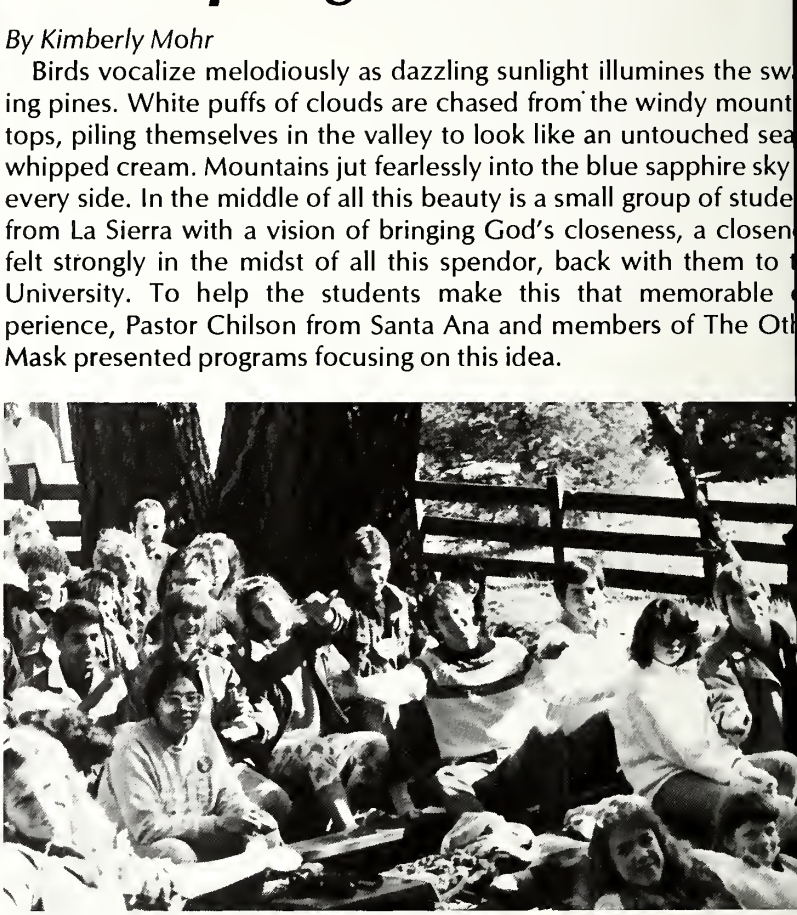
Festival Of Nations

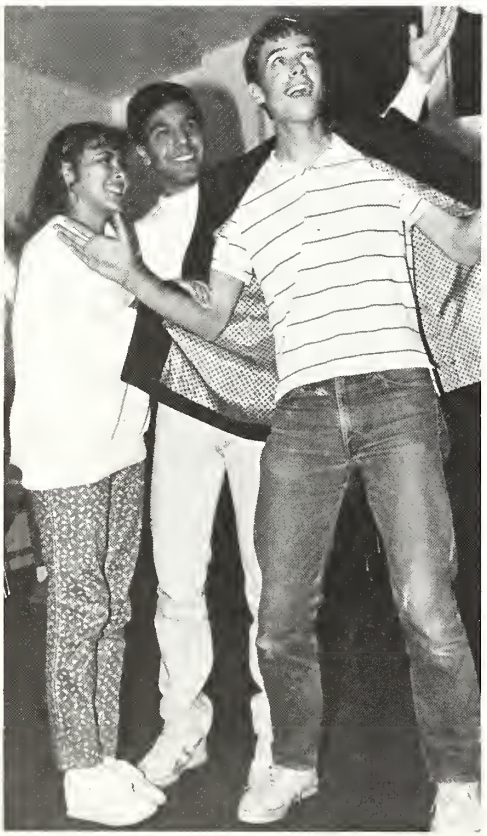
Every year, the clubs of our university join together under one roof and sell food. Although the Festival of Nations is known for its wide variety of food, it also lets us meet new people, and see old friends. The non-food booths took pictures, showed films and gave everyone a chance to put our friends and those we merely tolerate in jail. "No man is an island" is never more true on our campus than when we are exposed to the various cultures of our peers.

Pine Springs Ranch Retreat

By Kimberly Mohr

Birds vocalize melodiously as dazzling sunlight illumines the sw ing pines. White puffs of clouds are chased from the windy mount tops, piling themselves in the valley to look like an untouched sea whipped cream. Mountains jut fearlessly into the blue sapphire sky every side. In the middle of all this beauty is a small group of stude from La Sierra with a vision of bringing God's closeness, a closen felt strongly in the midst of all this spendor, back with them to University. To help the students make this that memorable perience, Pastor Chilson from Santa Ana and members of The Ot Mask presented programs focusing on this idea.





Winter Wonderland

By Tamara Boehmke

This year's Christmas banquet was held at Riverside's Raincross Square. Outside the weather was crisp and cool, while the atmosphere was warm and festive.

Walking under the arches of red, green, and white balloons we notice the centerpieces of red and green balloons at each of the tables. The Christmas tree added the finishing touches to the decorations.

After noticing the decorations one can't help but check out all of the students, friends, and faculty members dressed in their formal finery. Everyone looked great . . . we had a good turnout.

Allen Sovory and his band helped add to the Christmas spirit by singing numerous Christmas carols and soft jazz renditions throughout dinner. Everyone liked Allen's version of "Walking in a Winter Wonderland" so much that he sang it twice. The two skits performed by D. P. Harris and his troop topped off the evening's entertainment.

All of the hard work and effort put in by Schoen Safotu and his officers really paid off, giving us a nice Christmas banquet.

By Eddie Braga

Students screaming, drums pound amplifiers exploding, rowdies booing, curt malfunctioning, microphones crackling, lights, no lights.

New wave, Soul, Rock 'n Roll, Pop, Ball Comics (?), Ed Grimly, more Rock 'n R original compositions, Lip Sync.

All of these describe the campus wide ev known as "Ours After Hours." Over the ye OAH has envolved from a quaint gathering few students seated around cafe tables in student center to a once a quar phenomenon. No single campus event, v the possible exception of graduation, bri more students voluntarily together for plain fun.

Ours After Hours

Each quarter Hole Memorial Auditorium is lled to its 525+ seating capacity. There have een reports of students trying to crawl in the indows because they could not secure ckets.

Our After Hours has survived through the ears because of one important factor — tudents want it. It is in this wanting that tudents come together each quarter to plan, estructure, reorganize, and improve on the ast OAH. Without this dedication OAH would be a thing of the past.

And the musicians. What can be said of the alent on the La Sierra campus. OAH has serv-d as an informal forum in which students ould express themselves through perfor-mance. The diversity of musical talent is nlimited and appreciated.

What else can be said of Our After Hours? Wait for even more next year!

Sports

By Eldridge Ezpeleta

Each year the sports program at La Sierra grows; this y like never before.

At this academic institution the physical aspect is not out. Although students participate for a wide variety reasons (stress relief, fun, exercise, and just to meet new pe ple), they come together to play in teams, to play each oth to practice alone.

There are levels of organization for everyone; everythi from the highly disciplined varsity squads, to badminton jus few minutes in the afternoon. The options are endless.

This school year saw the men's sports program grow leaps and bounds — or shall we say by kicks, dunks, a spikes (let's not). Our new soccer, basketball, and volleyb teams played against other Christian colleges. The high co petition level and the encouraging level of Christian attitu guarantees continuous expansion of the athletic departmen

AS THE WORLD TURNS

GREETINGS FROM RED SQUARE is a salutation that was more common this year than ever before. As Moscow celebrated its 70th birthday, it also emerged as the years hottest tourist spot. Western models launched a fashion magazine, while Ed Bradley, Diane Sawyer and Dan Rather were there on location for CBS. Musician Billy Joel roused audiences with his rendition of "Back in the U.S.S.R." and congressmen, led by Speaker Jim Wright, met with Soviet leader Gorbachev. West German Mathias Rust, however, did not find the arms of Red Square open wide, when he buzzed his plane over Red Square and ended up with a four-year sentence in a Soviet labor camp.

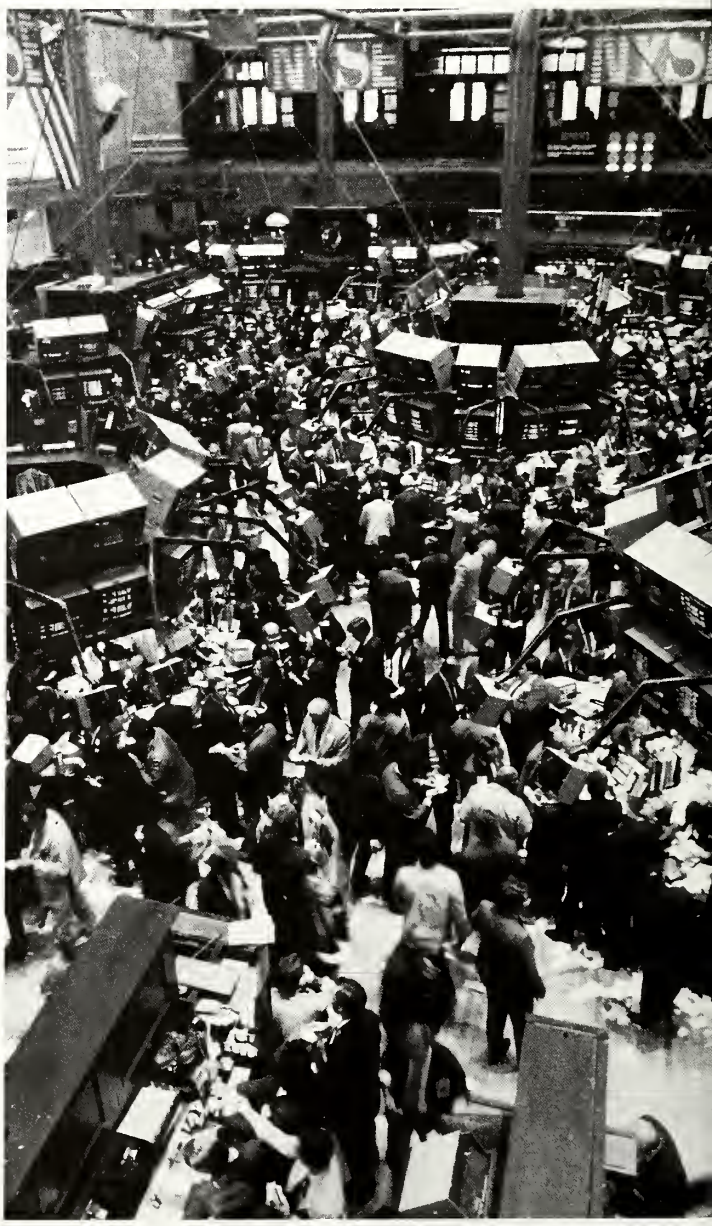
This was also a year where we bid our farewell to some of our most talented and admired. Among them: Actresses Mary Astor, 81, Geraldine Page, 62 and Rita Hayworth, 68; Actors Jackie Gleason, 71, John Huston, 81, Ray Bolger 83, Robert Preston, 68, Danny Kaye, 74 and Fred Astaire, 88; Clara "Where's the beef?" Peller, 86; William Smith 39, of Williwear fame; William Casey, 74, director of the CIA; Henry Ford, 70; and Artist Andy Warhol, age unknown, who onc said of death, "It would be very glamorous to be reincarnate as a big ring on Liz Taylor's finger."

AIDS emerged as a disease that not only affected homosex ual males, but heterosexuals as well. "Condommania" cam in full swing, with First Son, Ron Reagan, Jr. working on th campaign for AIDS education. He narrated a documenta aimed at heterosexuals that was aired on PBS (Public Broad casting Service): "The rules that run all our sexual lives hav changed. Now gay men and I.V. drug users are not the on ones in danger . . . AIDS is not a moral issue — you don't get because you're bad or you do bad things." Randy Shilts "And the Band Played On" became a best-seller with its ac count of the epidemic and an attack on the government, th news media and many gays for ignoring it at first.

These events, along with those pictured in the followin pages, constituted this year.

In an effort to keep the Persian Gulf open to navigation, the United States began in July to escort vessels to protect them from Iran. In September the U.S. Navy blew up an Iranian ship that was caught laying mines in the Gulf. Several mines were confiscated.

President Reagan talks with Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev during arrival ceremonies at the White House. The two superpower leaders held a three-day summit meeting in December and signed a nuclear arms control agreement.



The Dow Jones industrial stock average dropped 508 points, the largest in history, on Monday, October 19. Some called it a "crash," others called it a "meltdown" and others called it "Black Monday." Whatever it was, it stripped $500 billion from the market value of U.S. securities.

President and Mrs. Reagan greeted Pope Paul II when he arrived in Miami to begin a nine-city tour of the United States.

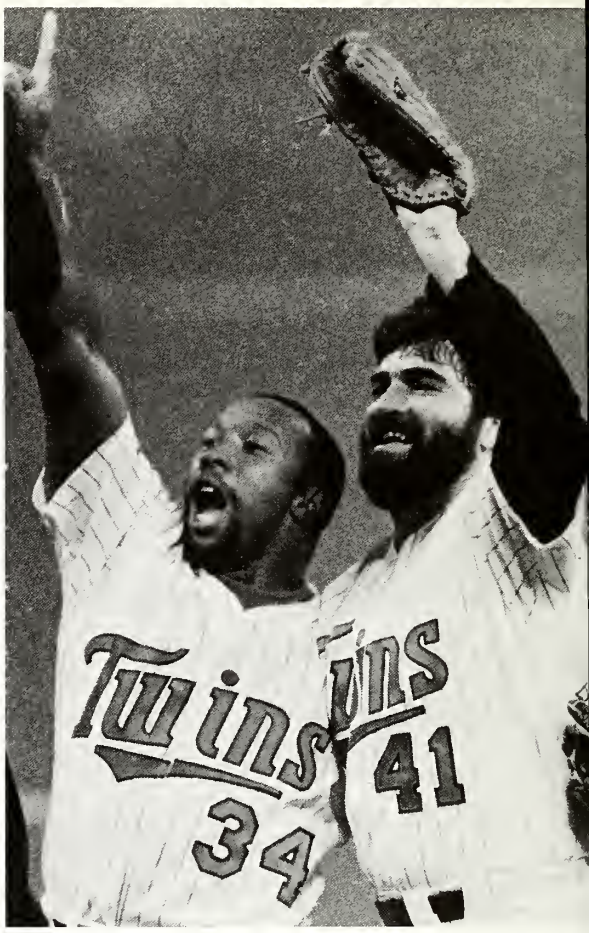
The senate rejected President Reagan's nomination of Robert H. Bork to the Supreme Court by a 58-42 vote, which ended a long contentious debate over a judge alternately portrayed as a brilliant jurist and a dangerous extremist.

Television evangelists Jim and Tammy Faye Bakker said farewell to the PTL ministry in March. Jim Bakker resigned after confessing to a sexual encounter with a young woman. Tammy Bakker bowed out of the broadcasts to undergo treatment for drug dependency.

An earthquake that measured 6.1 on the Richter scale hit Southern California in October. It was not a catastrophic quake, but the damage was extensive.

Democratic presidential candidate Gary Hart was forced to drop his bid for the presidency after it was reported that he was romantically involved with Donna Rice, a 20-year-old aspiring actress and model from Miami.

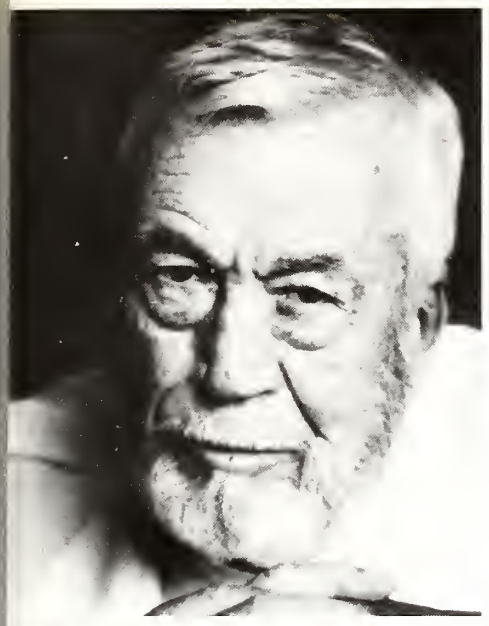
A 24-day strike by the NFL players ended in mid-October when the union capitulated and went to court instead of trying to fight the club owners at the bargaining table.



Kirby Puckett and Jeff Raerdon of the Minneso Twins celebrate their world Series victory over th St. Louis Cardinals. The Twins won the seventh an final game of the series 4-2.

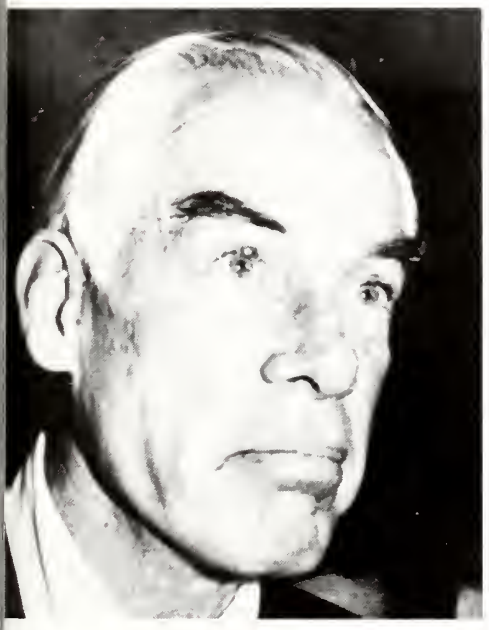
Washington Redskins quarterback Doug Williams grimaces as he hits the ground in the second quarter of Super Bowl XXII in San Diego. Williams went on to lead the Redskins to a 42-10 victory over the Denver Broncos, scoring a record 35 of those points in the second quarter.

Dennis Conner, the man who lost the America's Cup in 1983, won it back four years later. The Stars & Stripes completed a 4-0 sweep over Australia's Kookaburra III in the race that took place in Australia.



John Huston, who directed such films as "The Maltese Falcon" and "The Treasure of the Sierra Madre," died in his sleep in August at the age of 81.

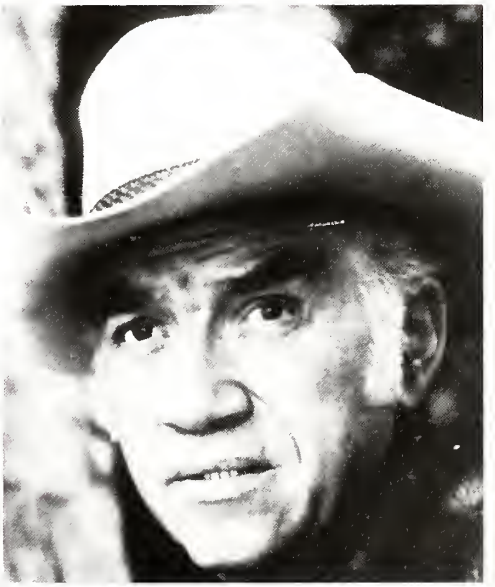
Fred Astaire, who epitomized Hollywood's elegance for 25 years dancing in top hat and tails with Ginger Rogers and other stars, died of pneumonia in June at the age of 88.



Lee Marvin, the gravel-voiced Oscar winner who died in August at the age of 63, was remembered by colleagues as an actor who really was among the good guys even though he often portrayed the hard-as-nails rogue.

Jackie Gleason, the rotund "Great One" who got laughs and riches as a blustering bus driver in the television series "The Honeymooners," died in June at the age of 71.

Libarace, the glittering showman and pianist who captivated fans for four decades with an inimitable personal and musical style, died quietly at his home in February at the age of 67.



Lorne Greene, who for 14 years played the firm but gentle father to three sons on television's "Bonanza," died in September at the age of 72.

Psychology is an exciting field to me because theory is so applicable to everyday; people a their behavior are fascinating. My goals in psychology a to help people better understand themselves and th problems. Accordingly, I plan to continue in p graduate education in Industrial Psychology. I then ho to find a career as a psychologist with an executive firm.

As I look to my future, I can't help but reflect on what LLU has meant to me these past four years. I have been asked, "Why a music degree from LLU?" My answer is three-fold. First is the quality of education I have received. Pursuing a performance degree requires the finest quality of pedagogy for success; I would like to thank my teacher, Mrs. Anita Olsen, for the motivation and inspiration she has instilled in me over the past 10 years. Secondly, I have received numerous performance opportunities at LLU which have given me invaluable experience no classroom could have provided. Finally, I now know that Christian education is not merely worthwhile just until I start graduate school, but good for life. With the solid background I have acquired at LLU I can confidently pursue my dream of making beautiful music. Whether in a concert hall, a classroom, or a church, my hope is that through my music I can provide happiness, hope, and inspiration.

I am graduating from the College of Arts a Sciences, Math and Computing Department. A leaving Loma Linda University, I plan to attend gradu school to pursue a Masters Degree and eventually a D. in Computer Science. I am considering several univ sities that have top programs in my area of interest. Th are a variety of career alternatives available to me. I c certainly use my computer science skills in industry systems analysis, design and development. I am p ticularly interested in software systems. Research another option, either in computer science, or in natural sciences where I would be designing compu simulations of natural phenomena. A third area I am co sidering is teaching. I feel very fortunate to have the g that God has given me, and I hope to develop them their maximum potential. I am thankful for the way which He has lead in my life through the last four ye here at La Sierra. Furthermore, I have grown from e periences and learned from the people with whom I ha had the opportunity to know here, both professors a friends. I will carry these experiences with me forever.

Is there life for an artist proceeding graduation? Or is the word "artist" just a ficticious name given to the bored bums who stand around in big cities painting on walls? Well, I will tell you that I plan to be the future "Patricia" Nagel of the 1990's! Might I add, that on the side I plan to re-design New York City. All-in-all, I plan to use my artistic skills in graphic design towards the world of advertising. Whether it be radio, television or copywriting ads, I will visually express my creative ideas. Who knows, maybe someday you'll see me on the streets of Los Angeles, but I can guarantee you will never see me painting on the walls!

Is there life after Palmer Hall? After four years hiding within its classrooms and laboratories, we beg to wonder if a real world existed outside of its wood sin and smelly air. We also began to wonder how we cou fit into this strange and seemingly cold environmer Many Palmer Hall "residents" believe that entering tl field of Medicine would be the best way to fit into tl real world. This means a few more years of rewarding se vice. In the midst of a changing field, this might seem to optimistic. However, we see beyond the struggle and a ticipate the joy of healing and the satisfaction of carin There is life beyond Palmer Hall. And like most things w do not know much about, we anticipate it with both fe and excitement.

After graduating as a Physical Education major in June, I will be looking for a job teaching at the secondary level in a private school. I would like to instruct in an SDA school system for about five years, then in a public school for another five or more years. After teaching for two or three years, I am planning on going back to school to get my Master's in possibly Exercise Physiology or Motor Learning. Some of the goals I have for my students are to help them realize the importance of being healthy and fit, and to teach them mental and physical fitness go hand in hand. To also get the students become more in time with themselves and our God. My personal goals are to keep mentally and physically fit so I can follow God's plan for my own life and help others achieve their goals.

My name is Ben Bautista and I'm a Communication Major. That's right, not a Biology, Business or Theology major, but a Communication major. So what am I going to do with my degree? Hopefully make ridiculous amounts of money working for an advertising agency. It's people in my profession that give you "Joe Isuzu" and "Max Headroom." It's the ingenious corp of imaginative minds working together to sell a product you don't need or want. I believe I am suited for a career in this field. So the next time you let that catchy little ad or that cute jingle influence you to buy a useless product, remember ME hard at work serving you.

"Where there is no vision, the people perish." think that we all need to reexamine the truth o this statement as individuals and as communities. M belief in this statement is one of the reasons why I am Ministerial Studies major. I want to help awaken the v sion in others of God's saving love for them, to sho them Jesus, to offer them friendship. As far as dreams, dream of being a tool in God's hands. When people ask me what I'm going to do with a French major, I hasten to add that I also majored in Business. As their faces flood with relief, I can hear them say, "At least she's practical!" In combining the two majors, I hope to work in an international environment — either with a multinational organization or an embassy. I also plan to continue my education in the areas of international business or the more politically — oriented international relations. However, these are not lifetime goals. Eventually I'd like to start my own business. Maybe I could found the first "Original Croissant Company?"

I consider myself fortunate in that my undergraduate major has been geared not only to a professional goal but to my personal interests as well. During my junior year, I began to worry that somehow my degree wasn't ''marketable'' enough, however. Such thoughts dissipated when I decided to plan my life as I have my college program, by immersing myself in what I enjoy and assuming everything will work out. I have a number of visions for my life, all of which are, I believe, excellent expansions to a History/Political Science major. I intend to pursue graduate studies in American civilization and enter the arenas of University teaching, journalism, and national politics.

Annette Bryson

Puzzled, they comment, "I don't get it, why a Mass Media major with Pre-Med?" I chuckle to myself, "I haven't even begun, they don't know about my writing minor, 'almost' business minor, and my Pre-Law courses." Excitedly, I graduate from college. Excited for what? I'm not sure yet. I envision landing my own medical plane in the jungles of Africa, offering hope to many. My booming practice in the states practice in the states gives me self-satisfaction with opportunities for investments — and millions $$. Drifting to another scene, I step behind the camera and feel the thrill and excitement of TV Journalism. But still, the gavel pounds in may ears as I step onto the courtroom floor, enchanting the jury with logic and charm, persuading them of my view. I may not know what life has to offer me, but college has given me unlimited opportunities.

Well - this is it! We Are finally through. But it never could have been done without the help of some very special people. So, we'd like to take this page to thank a few people for making this yearbook A possibility:

To Emily, Rigo, Josh, Eldridge & Herman - The L.S. people - For giving up A lot of their time when it was most crucial.

To Bo - who left us - And did we miss him. He did a great job!

To Poonster & HAighmonster - for pulling us out when we needed it.

To Jolynn our advisor & John our rep - just for being there.

And to everyone else who put time into this and had confidence in us - sometimes, even when we didn't. Our list of staff doesn't say enough. Thanx to everyone.

Helen and David

Payday Relief for Adventists

Payday shouldn't be a recurring nightmare for your Payroll Department, cutting and distributing checks. Or your employees, driving and waiting in teller lines.

Now, Adventist institutions and their employees can simplify everything with California Adventist Federal Credit Union's Net Pay and Direct Deposit service.

Instant access statewide

Your pay gets to the bank before you do, electronically deposited and available at over 600 Security Pacific Banks throughout California. And, one of the largest ATM networks in the state means 'round-the-clock convenience close to where you live or work. All without the time and expense of handling all that paper.

Simple to start, too

To set up a Net Poy/Direct Deposit account for you or your whole staff, just complete and mail the coupon below. Or, call us today at 818-246-7241. And find out more about what you have to gain by banking with your member-owned credit union.

In Touch With Family Needs
CALIFORNIA ADVENTIST FEDERAL CREDIT UNION

Serving all California Seventh-Day Adventists and employees of their institutions in California.

OK, CAFCU, tell me how you can simplify my payday with your Direct Deposit/Net Pay service.

[ ] I'm a Seventh Day Adventist or employed by an Adventist institution.
  [ ] I now have a CAFCU account # _____
[ ] I want to open one/both of the following accounts:
  [ ] Checking "share draft" account
  [ ] Savings "share" account
[ ] I represent an Adventist institution interested in setting up a payroll system for employees.

WHAT DO BIRTHDAYS, BOOMERANGS AND FLORIDA HOSPITAL NURSES HAVE IN COMMON?

THEY ALL KEEP COMING BACK!

Why do you suppose that in the past year 50 Florida Hospital RNs asked for their jobs back after working other places?

We think it's because of the quality care we provide and the challenging opportunities we offer at Florida Hospital. Nurses who've shopped the job market tell us we're right.

Florida Hospital, a 1,071-bed regional referral center, is the 7th largest cardiac center in the nation. The hospital's 236 critical care beds allow progressive programs in adult, pediatric and neonatal critical care. Other specializations include oncology, orthopedics, diabetes, psychiatry, monitored medical, surgical, rehabilitation, head injury and women's medicine.

Florida Hospital nurses have excellent personal and professional benefits, including flexible staffing options, differential pay for evenings, nights, weekends and holidays, premium night rate in addition to the differential, a weekend option on selected units, a per diem plan and seasonal employment. Other benefits include medical insurance, a retirement plan, an on-campus credit union, a tax-sheltered annuity plan, free parking and a multitude of discount programs for hospital and local services.

Educational benefits include tuition reimbursement, an on-the-job critical care internship program and on-campus BSN and MS programs.

If you want to know more about why nurses come back to Florida Hospital, call Judy Bond at 1-800-327-1914. In Florida, call collect, (305) 897-1998.

Is There Life After Work?

Yes! If you work at Loma Linda.

Nursing demands a lot from you. So when you're off work, breathe some fresh air in the nearby mountains. Enjoy a splash of life at the beach. Find harmony at the Los Angeles Music Center.

You have a lot to offer. And when you come to work at Loma Linda, you'll find we have as much to offer as you do.

Please contact our nurse recruiter, Paula Scott.
